² Active Return of the Fund is the difference between the Total Return and the return of the Benchmark. Gross Returns (before fees) are calculated by adding back the fees and expenses deducted. Please refer to the PDS for more information on fees and expenses.

Portfolio and Market Returns

The Bentham Global Income Fund had a total return (after fees) of -1.39% in the month of December, underperforming the benchmark (50% Bloomberg AusBond Bank Bill Index, 50% Bloomberg AusBond Composite Index) by 0.48%. On a before fees basis the fund returned -1.35% for the month, underperforming the benchmark by 0.44%.

December finished off 2022 the annus horribilis for bond and equity investors alike when the barbell approach temporarily broke-down. Floating rate credit, while broadly wider on the year, was useful during this period faring more favourably than Government Bonds and Equities which both posted double digit losses. Floating rate credit losses were modest and generally low single digits.

The top contributors to performance included Capital Securities, Collateralised Loan Obligations (CLO) and Asset Backed Securities (ABS); whilst the bottom performing contributors included Global Syndicated Loans, Global Hybrids and Investment Grade Credit.

Whilst cash rates will continue to increase, yield curves are starting to invert in the US, Europe and UK as markets anticipate peak long-term rates. Our strategy has been to add interest rate duration in economies where households have a high sensitivity to the projected rate rises. In our multi-sector credit portfolios, we remain active on managing interest rate risk and have increased our interest rate duration further and reduced credit risk in anticipation of a slowing economy. We wait for the long and variable lagged impact of monetary policy and possibly wider credit spreads.

Market concerns of potential economic weakness have seen credit markets weaken over the past year, with credit spreads increasing significantly as traded credit markets have actively repriced. The higher implied credit spreads are now well above 10-year averages and currently provide an additional running yield buffer against further market weakness, and we believe that the higher overall yield provides for a favourable income profile.

Fund Distributions

Distribution frequency	Monthly
Monthly distribution ⁹	0.54% (Dec 2022)
Target distribution rate (FY23) ¹⁰	6.5%

³ Spread over the swap rate.

⁴ An assigned credit rating of BBB-/Baa3 or better by a credit rating agency.

⁵ Volatility is Standard Deviation.

⁶ Sharpe Ratio is the excess return over the Bloomberg AusBond Bank Bill Index (before fees) divided by Standard Deviation.

⁷ Tracking Error is the Standard Deviation of the Active Return (before fees).

⁸ Information Ratio is the Active Return (before fees) divided by the Tracking Error.

⁹ Calculated as the cents per unit (CPU) distribution at the month end divided by the ex-distribution unit price at the start of the month.

¹⁰ Bentham intends to achieve the distribution rate for FY2023 with taxable income. If there is a shortfall of taxable income, the distribution may possibly include a capital return.

The current distribution rate setting was based on the running yield of the Fund as at 30 June 2022 and assumes the Fund continues to achieve an equivalent yield for FY2023.

Actual distributions, however, can differ from this setting because of future matters which are not known or able to be presently identified.
